

GREAT DAY AT LEE CO. FAIR GROUNDS TODAY

ENORMOUS CROWD ON GROUNDS FOR THE REALLY BIG DAY OF THE FAIR.

ATTENDANCE RECORD BREAKER

Racing at Fair Has Been Excellent—
Big Crowd Saw Races Yesterday—Free Exhibitions.

Today is the big day of the week at the Amboy fair and Old Sol, rising in all glory in the east this morning, decreed it to be the finest day with the biggest crowd that has ever attended a Lee county fair for many years.

The spacious fair grounds were alive with thousands of people by mid-morning, and mid-afternoon found a veritable jam of humanity in the mid-way, the grand stands, and among the beautiful and interesting exhibits, etc.

The dropping dead of Future Royal, the race horse entered by Pierce of Dixon, on the Amboy track almost in front of the grand stand yesterday was a very spectacular affair.

Through mis-information we announced in last evening's Telegraph that Pierce was driving the horse during yesterday's race, but the driver of the horse was Charles Wilson, of Rockford. The horse was entered by Pierce, however, who has leased him. Pierce is in Detroit, and has not driven the horse since the Morrison and Sycamore races. Future Royal won his race at Sycamore and took second at Morrison.

The animal was coming down the home stretch in the first heat and was only a few rods from the judges' stand when his head commenced to wobble and his legs struck out. He started to fall and the driver kept him on his feet as long as he could with the reins, but he finally went down and was found to be dead.

Future Royal was owned by D. Shannon of New Philadelphia, Ill. Heart trouble is given as the cause of the animal's death.

The races were enjoyed by a big crowd. The grand stand was almost completely filled and great interest was manifested in the racing. The free attractions across from the grand stand also came in for their share of applause, and the trained mules, ponies, dogs, etc., were very entertaining.

"The Big Smoke" trying to ride the mule furnished as much entertainment as anything else and several times he got in the way of a forty mule power kick, right where it would do him the most good, and when the fun was over the colored boy had a decided limp.

The mid-way was thronged with visitors from all over the county and adjoining counties. Politicians are "making hay" at the fair this week and the air is blue with the smoke from campaign cigars.

Today's crowd is the largest of the week and the races today are par-excellence.

The results of Wednesday's races are as follows:

2:30 Trot, Purse $350.

Charline May (Blind) 1 1 1

STORY OF LEADER OF MARINE BAND

HISTORY OF THE LEADER OF
"THE PRESIDENT'S OWN" BAND
FROM WASHINGTON.

TO PLAY HERE OCTOBER 5TH

The Greatest Musical Organization in America Will Give One Concert in Dixon at Assembly Park.

The many music lovers of this city who are planning to hear the concert by the famous United States Marine Band at Assembly park on the evening of October 5th will be glad to know the history of the great Band's equally great leader. Lieutenant William H. Santelmann was born in the province of Hanover, Germany. Descended from a long line of musical ancestors, he showed, when still quite young, a marked talent for music. He chose the violin for his special study, and at the early age of fourteen took up the study of harmony. The further he progressed in this study the more he became convinced of the great advantage of acquainting himself with all the instruments used in an orchestra as well as in a band. He acted upon this conviction, and it is a remarkable fact that Mr. Santelmann could, if the necessity arose, play any of the fifty or more instruments used by the Marine Band of the present tour.

At the age of eighteen Mr. Santelmann enlisted as a volunteer in the band of the 134th Infantry Regiment then stationed at Leipzig, one of the great musical centers of Germany. For three years his connection with this band continued and afforded him the best possible opportunity not only to acquaint himself with the intricacies of the different instruments, but to assimilate the exceptional advantages in the field of music, especially instrumental music, which are offered in his studies on the violin and in harmony and composition, and after to the student in Peipsic. At the conclusion of his term of service, he came to the United States, having accepted an offer from Philadelphia. When the Philadelphia engage-

Spect Shoe company for many years, finally going into business for himself. He was in the shoe business for sixteen years and then retired from his work. In 1184 he married Miss Emma A. Grove of Ackley, Iowa, and to this union were born two children, Elmer W., who is living at home, and Lola, who died at the age of three years and seven months, on Jan. 16, 1891.

Mr. Grant was 62 years of age at the time of his death and had been in poor health for some time. He leaves his wife, son and one sister living in Sweden.

MRS. T.F. DORNBLASER ANSWERED LAST CALL

WIFE OF FORMER DIXON PAS-TOR PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING.

FUNERAL MONDAY AFTERNOON

Burial Will Take Place in Chicago—
Dr. Altman Will Assist In Services.

Mrs. Anna Dornblaser, wife of the Rev. T. F. Dornblaser of Chicago, passed away this morning at 7:30 o'clock. Her death was due to a paralytic stroke with which she was stricken two days ago. She relapsed into a state of coma from which she never gained consciousness.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Grace Lutheran church of Chicago. The services will be conducted by Dr. H. M. Bannen of Rockford, Ill., assisted by Rev. F. D. Altman of this city. Rev. Dornblaser who has been friends with Rev. Altman for the past thirty-five years requested his presence in this hour of sorrow.

Rev. Dornblaser was pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church of this city from the year 1895 to the year 1903, and during that time the people of Dixon became fondly attached to the faithful minister and his beloved wife. After leaving Dixon he became pastor of the Grace Lutheran church in Chicago which position he now holds.

The deceased is survived by her sorrowing husband and five children: Mrs. Mabel Phillips, Mrs. Josephine Walder and Attorney John Dornblaser of Chicago, Dr. Frank Dornblaser of Amboy, and Paul of Chicago. Dr. Dornblaser, who is superintendent of the Amboy hospital, went to Chicago this morning.

She is survived by her husband and five children to whom the condolences of a very large number of friends is tendered.

TIPPET WON MOTOR- CYCLE RACE EASILY

DIXON RIDER WAS STEADY AND
COOL ON TURNS AND SWIFT ON THE STRETCHES.

SMITH TOOK BAD TUMBLE

Morrison Driver Went Off Machine
Going Sixty Miles An Hour—
Was Not Injured.

The motorcycle race at the Amboy fair yesterday furnished a thrill for the big audience when Harry Smith, starting on the ninth lap of the five mile race on his Flying Merkle, lost control of his motorcycle when he struck the west curve, in full sight of the grandstand, hitting a sixty-mile clip. The little machine skidded sideways on the track, striking small ruts and the driver made heroic efforts to keep it righted, but his efforts were unsuccessful and he was finally thrown head first onto the track and up against the inside fence. No bones were broken, however, and he was soon up and around.

Smith had been giving Ned Tippet of Dixon, an Indian, a hard run for his money, although Tippet had taken the lead at the start and held it by hard, consistent driving all the way around the ten laps. Tippet made the fastest time on the stretches and took less chances on the turns. Smith crawled upon Tippet at every turn but would lose his advantage every time when Tippet would streak away down the straight-away. Smith's spectacular driving on the turns caused the crowd to gasp with apprehension several times. He would stay wide on the straight-away track until almost to the turn and then would make a short dash for the inside fence and hug it all the way around. His chances of hooking into the fence seemed very good every time.

The race went to Tippet easily with Smith out, and there is no doubt but that Tippet would have been the winner anyway, for in a pinch he could have made his last lap considerably faster. The time was 6:16 for the five miles.

George Sargenson took the second money in the motorcycle race and R. Wheat took third.

MEAGRE REPORTS RECEIVED FROM BATTLE FRONT
150 MILES LONG.

THREE MILLIONS OF TROOPS

At Least That Many Soldiers Are Engaged in the Momentous Struggle.

(Associated Press.)
WORLD MUST GUESS
ON BATTLE'S PROGRESS

London, Sept. 17—The world is today guessing on the progress of the terrible clash of arms on the heights northward of the River Aisne, for but little news has come from the struggle.

Berlin claims that the attacks of the allies have been repulsed and that the German counter attacks have succeeded, while London says that the German attacks have been repulsed and that the invaders are slowly giving way.

150 Miles of Front.
The battle line must be fully 150 miles long, so there is ample room for successes in one part of the field and reverses elsewhere.

Three Million Men.
The opposing armies with their reinforcements will probably total three million men.

May Be Decisive.
The Germans are in their selected position and have had strong reinforcements from Lorraine; consequently this battle may prove to be one of the most decisive and momentous of the war.

Both sides have suffered enormously during the past week.

Leave Germans Alone.
Italian and Roumanian activities seem to point to decisive action in the near future and should these countries take the field against Austria-Hungary it is agreed that Germany will be thrown on her own resources to repel the invasion by the Russians.

BERLIN SAYS REPORTS ARE UNTRUE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 17—The German embassy has received a wireless from Berlin saying: "All French-English reports of victories in the battles in France are untrue. The retreat of the German west wing did not effect the strategic position of our forces, while the French attempt to break through our center was repulsed. There have been German successes at several points on the long battlefield."

GERMANS ADMIT ABANDONING LIEGE

London, Sept. 17—Rome dispatches say that it has been officially admitted that the Germans have abandoned Liege.

BRITISH LOSSES HAVE BEEN HEAVY

Paris, Sept. 17—Paris Temps declares that the British losses in the fighting have been 15,000 killed and wounded.

COLD HEAVY RAINS FELL ON BATTLEFIELD

Paris, Sept. 17—Cold heavy rains are falling today in the fighting zone in northeastern France.

BARRIER OF CORPSES TAKEN BY FRENCH TURCOS

London, Sept. 17—A Times dispatch says: "Terrible stories are arriving in Paris of piles of dead and wounded in the recent fighting along the River Marne. At one place the Germans are said to have erected a barrier six feet high of corpses. This barrier was carried by the French Turcos, 7,500 dead marking the place."

HURRY GERMAN
WESTWARD AGAIN

London, Sept. 17—Petrograd reports that the flower of the German army corps, which were detached for service in East Prussia, are again hurrying back to the western front.

Gen. Hindenburg Commands

A dispatch from Stockholm says that General Hindenburg, who was victorious against the Russians in East Prussia, has been summoned to command the western German army.

Austrian Army Safe.

The terribly battered Austrian army is safe under the guns of Przemyśl, but the Russians are only nineteen miles away.

Russians Cross San.

The Russians have crossed the River San and are hammering the retreating Austrian-German forces.

Keep Fighting Strength

Despite the unprecedented losses, the German-Austro allies seem to retain their fighting organization and if they can gain Gracow they may be able to prevent the Russian right from marching on Berlin.

GERMANS START TO DRIVE OUT RUSSIANS

Rome, Sept. 17—The Tribunal says that Germany has adopted a new plan which will consist of maintaining the defensive against the allies in the west while undertaking an offensive movement against the Russians, in which movement twelve German army corps have been placed.

AUSTRIAN RESERVISTS ARE ORDERED TO ENMASSE

Paris, Sept. 17—Vienna dispatches say that the Neue Freie Presse announces the approaching call for the enmassment of all reservists.

GALICIAN TRAITORS ARE AWAITING SENTENCE

London, Sept. 17—It is reported from Vienna that 1800 Galician traitors who were paid by Russia to signal the position of the Austrian troops, are awaiting sentence at Graz.

GERMANS SEEM TO HAVE REPULSED RUSS

London, Sept. 17—Several German army corps which have been sent into East Prussia appear to have pushed the Russians back with great loss to the Muscovites.

Admit Big Loss.

Enormous loss of Austrians has been admitted at Vienna.

Petrograd reports that the Turkish troops are concentrating on the Bulgarian frontier.

Italy May Enter War.

It is also reported that the Italian reservists in Paris have been called to assemble on Sept. 28 and they believe this means that Italy will enter the war.

CHARGE COSSACKS WITH AWFUL BRUTALITY

Berlin, Sept. 17—In East Prussia twenty German recruits were surprised by Cossacks who cut off their hands, legs, ears and noses.

A dispatch from Rome to Petrograd says that the two Austrian armies commanded by Generals Dankl and Auffenberg have joined forces at Rzesow, thirteen miles northeast of Jaroslaw, and that in the course of this operation the Russians inflicted upon them a loss that cost forty per cent of their numbers.

A report from Petrograd says that the Austro-German forces in their retreat left thirty-six cannons on which were the Kaiser's initials. The Germans have concentrated in East Prussia a force of 750,000 men.

Interesting Sideights on the War

Associated Press: Representatives In Foreign Lands Write of Unusual Circumstances Attendant the Great European Struggle.

TO REMEDY POOR TEETH.

London, Sept. 2.—So many men who want to enlist in the army have been refused because of defective teeth, that fifty American and English dentists have volunteered their services to remedy conditions. Each of the fifty dentists has agreed to treat without cost the teeth of fifty men whose physical condition is such that they will be accepted as recruits when their dental shortcomings are removed.

PAU REFUSED SWORD.

Paris, Sept. 1.—The French papers are recalling an interesting reply which General Pau made a year ago when his admirers proposed to present him with a sword of honor upon the occasion of his giving up command of the 20th Army Corps. "I certainly should not accept the sword of honor that you and other well meaning patriots think of giving me," he said. "Such a recompense must be reserved for the man who shall lead our victorious armies beyond Metz and Strassburg, beyond the Rhine, into the very heart of the German Empire. As for me, modest worker in times of peace, enemy to publicity and popularity, it is sufficient that I have the confidence of those who have served under my orders, and the suffrage of good people such as you."

LARGE CHURCH ATTENDANCE.

Manchester, Sept. 3.—Greatly increased attendance at church services is one of the marked effects of the war which has been noted by Manchester clergymen, one of whom discussing this subject in a Manchester paper says: "It is surprising to see as large an attendance at a week-night service as at a Sunday service. It is the instinct of those left at home to find fellowship at such times. But the outstanding factor is that the war is bringing us as a nation into the presence of the realities of life and of death."

SCHOOL MILITARY CAMPS.

London, Sept. 3.—Most of the universities and schools have been turned into military camps temporarily. At Cambridge and other places Commons have been covered with tents and uniformed soldiers are learning military science on grounds given over so long ago to the cap and the gown. Indications are that the attendance at the universities this fall will be so slight that the army may continue to use many of the school buildings without interfering with college work.

The presence of troops about the various colleges at Cambridge has fired the town with the military spirit and stimulated recruiting work. Already more than 1,500 members of the Officers' Training Corps at Cambridge have offered their services as commissioned officers.

BLUE CROSS SOCIETY.

London, Sept. 2.—The Blue Cross Society which has been established at the suggestion of Sylvia Lathrop, the fourteen year old daughter of Ben Lathrop, of California, and which is composed entirely of children, has the collection of tobacco for convalescent soldiers as its particular mission. Already the children have obtained enough smoking tobacco and material to supply 200 soldiers in one London hospital and the work is constantly expanding.

NOT HIS LETTER.

Paris, Sept. 1.—An instance of the censor's pitiless treatment of letters from the soldiers at the front to their wives and sweethearts in Paris, is the cause of a wife who received the following note from the censor as a substitute for the long letter her husband had written.

"Madame," he said, "your husband is well but is far too loquacious."

DISTINCTIVE MOURNING.

London, Sept. 4.—The proposition of instituting a distinctive form of mourning to be worn by the relatives of British soldiers and sailors killed in the war has attracted much attention. Several M.P.s have been interested themselves in the subject, but the form which the mourning should take is still undecided.

A Red Cross worker, writing to Queen Mary's Needlework Guild suggested that all towns and villages organize local committees of women to gather black clothing, used, but in good condition, to be distributed to the poor mourners who lose relatives in their country's service. To dispense with mourners at this time, the writer said, in answer to another proposal, would be to entail further hard slightest idea of the enormous importance that working women attach to mourning. They will even starve themselves and their children to obtain money for its purchase. To urge them to dispense with mourning at such a time as this would add a sting to the horrors of death." She suggested that Mourning Supply Committees furnish men and children relatives with a black band bearing a miniature Union Jack.

THE GREAT MAJESTIC MALLEABLE and CHARCOAL IRON RANGE

You make no mistake in buying the GREAT MAJESTIC—it's the range with THE REPUTATION—ask your neighbors. Then, too, it's made just right and of the right kind of material—MALLEABLE and CHARCOAL IRON—riveted together practically air tight—lined with pure asbestos—parts being malleable can't break—has a movable reservoir and an oven that doesn't warp—that's why the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel, bakes just right every day in the year (browns bread just right all over without turning) heats 15 gallons of water while breakfast is cooking—properly handled lasts a lifetime and costs practically nothing for repairs.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a lifetime "unsight unseen;" you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store during demonstration week, see the GREAT MAJESTIC—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the MAJESTIC is 300 per cent stronger than other ranges where most ranges are weakest.

SPECIAL

All during this week a special demonstrator direct from the MAJESTIC FACTORY will be glad to show you "ALL ABOUT RANGES"—show you why the MAJESTIC is the best range on earth at any price.

COME, IF YOU INTEND TO BUY OR NOT.

EDUCATION lies in KNOWING THINGS—KNOW why the oven of a range is heated—KNOW how the water is heated—HOW the top is heated—WHY the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel—KNOW how a range is made inside and outside. This education may serve you in the future. DON'T OVERLOOK A CHANCE TO KNOW THINGS shown by one who knows. COME.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE DATE. THIS IS A SPECIAL INVITATION TO YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS

At Sultus.

Among the numerous enjoyable events standing to the credit of Sultus, the up-river cottage of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Warner, the informal luncheon extended to Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Hunt, yesterday, by a few members of the Pioneer Whist club, will remain conspicuous in the memory of all the participants.

Yesterday finished the fortieth year of the married life of the honored guests, every year of which, until two years ago when they moved to Seattle to be near their daughters, was spent in this city. During all those years Dr. Hunt was one of our leading physicians, and outside of our borders stood high in the profession; and both were prominent in the social life of the city. To the older members of the community their absence is keenly felt.

The climax of the jollification was reached when Mrs. Hunt surprised the party by appearing at table in the identical wedding gown of forty years ago, fully as merry and charming—if not quite as rosy—as on that far-away day when she first donned it, and it made its first public appearance.

The convention will be held in the new Armory hall. The address of welcome will be given by Mrs. Clara Goodrich, past president of the Dixon corps. The response will be given by Mrs. Etta Packard of Lanark. The musical numbers will be furnished by Mrs. Allan Reed and Mrs. W. R. Parker. The morning session will be an open one and all patriotic orders and friends will be welcome. The afternoon session will be closed and members of the W. R. C. in good standing will be admitted.

Several of the department officers will be present. About 300 delegates are expected. The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve dinner for the members of the convention in the Y. M. C. A. building.

For many years piano manufacturers and dealers have tried to reduce the selling expense of pianos. The old way of paying solicitors, paying music teachers' commissions, and engaging great artists to play their pianos at fabulous sums are being eliminated. And now, it is the question of the best advertised piano, and one in which the purchasers are given the greatest possible value. This is the age of co-operation and the manufacturers correctly believe that the best way to market and introduce their product is to spend the advertising money in making special offers to the people rather than employing world famous demonstrators at fabulous expense and making the people pay for such methods by asking a heavily inflated price for the piano.

SAVING IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

Speaking of thrift, a bulletin recently issued by the American Society of Thrift tells how a family managed to cut expenses very easily by plugging up the little leaks.

This is the story told by the man of the house:

"We decided, or rather, I decided—my wife denied it—that we could save $500 a year on housekeeping and household expenses. So I took things in hand. Here is the budget:

Eggs. Perhaps you don't know that a household of five, plus servants, consumes about 100 eggs a week. My wife had been paying four cents for each of them. I found they could be bought for 33 cents a dozen. Net saving per week, $1.33.

The butcher. The ordinary man doesn't know that the butcher always sends 7 to 11 ounces more than you order—and the ordinary woman doesn't think of coping with this by ordering 7 to 11 ounces less than she needs. By simply ordering slightly smaller quantities there was a saving of nearly 75 cents a week.

Then by cutting down on telephone calls and my wife's daily tour to the local shops there was a big saving and infinitely better service. This economy amounted to $1.02.

The baker. I found that we were ordering at least one loaf a day more than we needed. Result: stale bread—waste, saving under my regime about 27 cents a week.

And then the garden. My wife had paid $1.25 twice a week to a man who came and looked at it—and did nothing else. He went. A really able man comes once a fortnight, and my son and I have taken a hand. Saving, $1.87 once a week.

The kitchen. You have no idea how much waste goes on there. We cook by gas—the burners are turned on full—giving a flare that heats the surrounding air and misses the saucepan. We are saving at least 25 cents a week on the gas bill.

There was an awful waste in things sent up to the table. Sweets that nobody ate made a regular appearance—junket, for example, the stuff that looks like blanc-mange and tastes like nothing. We had a family council on the sweets and other foods we liked—and the kitchen saving for the six months has been exactly $87.75, say $3.75 a week.

If you add these up you will find that they total over $9 a week. In addition, by prompt payments, insisting on discounts, buying things—sugar and bacon, for example—in large quantities, we have brought the economy line up to nearly $10.50 a week."

The above is all right in many cases, but the average husband has found, or would find if he tried, that the "lady of the house" is just as good or better at economy than himself. The best plan is for them to work together. There are many ways for saving beside household expenses.

September
By WALT MASON

September, the smiling, the month of delight, entrancing, beguiling, is with us tonight. September the pleasant, of generous fame, is answering "Present!" when called is her name. September's the guerdon for all we have borne, the heat and the burden that made our hearts mourn. She pays for the grilling we got in July; she says, "I am willing your teardrops to dry; come rest on my bosom, and if you have fears, I'll see that you lose 'em, my own stricken dears!" She pays for the glaring of midsummer skies, the sweating, the swearing, the beetles and flies; the pains and the rigors of long August days, the fleas and the chiggers—ah, nobly she pays! Her breezes caressing already have cheered; no hot winds distressing are scorching my beard; her nights come a-creeching from some cooler clime, and man, in his sleeping, makes up for lost time. The meadows are golden, the heavens are blue, the year is unfoldin' its blessings to you. You cease to remember the troubles you've known, since gentle September comes into her own.

Belgian Charges Given to Wilson

A summary of cruelty charges against the Germans filed with President Wilson yesterday by the Belgian commission follows:

That on the night of Aug. 16, Germans entered Linsmeau, and despite the assurances of the burgomaster that civilians had not attacked them, they disarmed the peasant men taking eleven of them to a ditch where they were afterwards found dead, their skulls fractured by the butts of rifles.

That on the same night, Germans entered Velm while the inhabitants slept; burned and sacked a farm stripped the farmer's wife and shot at her as she ran. The farmer was wounded.

That on Aug. 10, 11 and 12, Germans at Orsmaal and Neerhespen cut an old man's arm in three longitudinal slices and then hung him head downwards and burned him alive; assaulted young girls and outraged children.

That after an engagement at Healen, Gen. van Damme, who lay wounded face upward on the battlefield was murdered by Germans, the shots entering his mouth.

That numerous wounded and unarmed oldiers were ill treated or killed by Germans and in different places doctors and nurses were fired upon.

That on Aug. 19, Germans invested Aerschot, shot inoffensive civilians, took all the men left in the city, turned them lose four at a time and shot them as they ran, later bayoneting them; pillaged the whole town.

That the Germans penetrated into Louvain, looted the banks, sacked and pillaged residences, took prominent men hostages and outraged women and children.

ANOTHER BOOST IN PRICE LAID TO WAR

Illinois Milk Producers Back on Usual Reserves.

Elgin, Ill., Sept. 17.—When the campaign of milk buyers seeking winter contracts opened in this district producers and distributors were an average of 21-23 cents apart.

The farmers, for the most part, are members of the Milk Producers' association, which met recently in Chicago and determined to demand $2 per 100 pounds for milk. The latest canvass indicated that the majority of them were supporting this agreement. The buyers offered contracts as follows:

October, $1.75; November, December, January, $1.85; February, $1.75; March, $1.65. This is an average of $1.78 or 3 1/4 cents higher than last winter's average.

The producers are organizing a meeting, to be held here, to maintain a solid front for the prices which they claim are justified by the higher prices they have to pay for other commodities and the heavy European demand for condensed milk occasioned by the war.

GERMANS
ASSAULT

changed. According to the report the French attacks Tuesday and Wednesday were repulsed at a number of points and the Germans made victorious counter attacks.

GERMAN RESISTANCE
HAS NOT BEEN BROKEN

Paris, Sept. 17.—An official statement this afternoon says: "The great battle is continuing with undecisive results. The resistance of the Germans has not been broken but at certain points they have given away slightly. Their counter attacks have been repulsed."

CITIES FEAR ALLIES WILL ADVANCE FURTHER

Maastricht, Holland, Sept. 17.—Dispatches from Cologne, Dusseldorf, Wesel and Duisburg indicate that these points have been strengthening their fortifications to meet any possible advance of the allies.

The Germans have not evacuated Liege. Numerous German infantry and artillery of forty guns passed through Liege Tuesday going toward France.

GERMAN CASUALTIES
ARE PLACED AT 35,786.

Berlin, Sept. 17.—The total number of Germans killed, wounded and missing was today published at Berlin as 35,786. Among those killed is Prince Otto Victor Schoenberg-Waldenburg.

A London report says a German force of 60,000 men has been rushed into Belgium within the last twenty-four hours. A report from Ghent says that the Germans are fortifying Brussels and strengthening the existing defenses of the town. The Belgians have refused to treat as prisoners of war Commandant Meune, commander of the landstrum at Louvain. He is being held as a criminal prisoner at Antwerp and will be courtmartialled for gross infractions of the laws of war. The future campaign is to be controlled by the developments in France.

Paris, Sept. 17.—The official communique issued at 11:05 p. m. says: "Military headquarters has not communicated this evening any new details of the engagements proceeding on our front. As has already been said, nothing must be taken as a surprise which happens in a battle lasting several days, and there is no conclusion to be inferred in any sense. We knew, at 6 o'clock this evening we have not given way at any point."

Fight Not Yet General.

Paris, Sept. 17.—Beyond the meagre announcement contained in the latest official communique that at 6 o'clock in the evening the allied forces had not given way at any point Paris knows little of the situation north of the Aisne. From various reports arriving here it is evident that the great battle in which the Germans are expected to make their decisive stand in France has not yet begun in earnest and that only skirmishes have occurred between the rear guards of the enemy and the pursuing forces of the allies by which they were overtaken.

The position taken up by the Germans is well chosen and a long engagement between the opposing lines can be expected. According to the best information available here the brunt of the conflict is north of Rheims, west of the Argonne ridge and north of Verdun. The amount of resistance which the Germans are offering is, however, almost impossible to estimate, nor is it clear whether the enemy intends to make his last stand in his present position or merely cover his retreat to the River Meuse.

One report received here is to the effect that all the available reserves of the Germans are to be rushed into France from their base at Cologne. Another report from Basel, Switzerland, received by way of London, announces that the German troops on the western border have been ordered to retire as far as the right bank of the Rhine, evacuating Belgium, France and Luxembourg. This report, however, is not credited here.

The skill displayed by the German commanders in keeping their forces practically intact is taken to indicate that the enemy is preparing for a battle on a huge scale, and no one here believes that the Germans will withdraw from France without a final and decisive test of the strength of the opposing lines.

Kaiser's Army Giving Way.

London, Sept. 17.—After suffering very heavy losses in unsuccessful counter attacks, the Kaiser's strongly entrenched armies along the River Aisne have begun giving way.

To the eastward the army of the crown prince, routed from Varennes, was hurled back along the River Meuse toward Luxembourg by a triumphant French force which now holds the roadways to Metz by which the crown prince might have retreated to Germany. An official statement by the war press bureau says:

"The general position of the allies along the Aisne river continues very favorable. The enemy has delivered several counter attacks, especially against the British First army corps. These have been repulsed, and the Germans have given way slightly before our troops and the French armies on our right and left.

Crown Prince Gives Way.

Paris, Sept. 17.—Crown Prince Frederick William has evacuated Varennes, where he made his stand against the French after his defeat at Vitry-le-Francois. His failure to hold the French center in check has thrown the burden of battle on the German right wing army.

"The second great battle of the war reached its critical phase on a line 110 miles long from Noyon, fifty-five miles northeast of Paris, to a point north of Verdun, where the crown prince is desperately striving to extricate himself from his isolated position. The official statement issued in the afternoon says:

AT THE FAMILY.

For the four days commencing Thursday evening, September 17th, Manager Plein announces a particularly attractive variety program which will prove a genuine treat for visitors of this popular playhouse the latter portion of the current week. A prominent novelty will be that of the Kankasian Eagle troupe, an organization of five Russian singers, dancers and instrumentalists, participated in by three gentlemen and two ladies who are immediately recognized as finished artists. Their exhibitions in Native Russian dances are marvelous to say the least, and in fact the entire offering is one of unusual merit to say the least, and in fact the entire offering is one of unusual merit and must be seen to be appreciated as its novelty and skill defy description.

As an extra attraction, an exceptionally clever Duo under the name of Franks and Walters offer a clever skit, which they have embellished with special scenic effects, providing splendid opportunities for these talented artists to display their versatility in the modern songs and dances of the moment.

Pictures tonight are: Wanted an Heir, The Ordeal; The Adventures of the Legacy.

PRINCESS THEATER.

The eleventh episode of The Million Dollar Mystery will be shown this evening at the Princess, also the twenty-seventh series of the Mutual Girl and a one reel subject called Susie's New Shoes, which is a Beauty comedy. This will make a very interesting and diversified bill.

STORY OF LEADER OF MARINE BAND

ment terminated, two offers were made to him; one from New York, and the other to enter the United States Marine Band. He chose the latter, and in 1887 entered the Band as its first violinist and barytone player. After a service of eight years he retired from the Band and organized an orchestra, which in a short time became one of the musical attractions of the National Capital, but in the year following his retirement he returned to the Band, this time as its leader.

When Mr. Santelmann assumed the leadership of the Marine Band it was but a small organization consisting of thirty classified musicians and eight privates. He saw at once that if the Band was to attain its proper importance as a distinguished governmental institution its membership would have to be very largely increased and its facilities for doing the best possible work greatly augmented. He immediately set to work to persuade his superior officers to urge the necessary legislation upon Congress, and on the third day of March, just one year after his assumption of the leadership, President McKinley signed the Act which provided for the United States Marine Band a leader, a second leader, thirty first class and thirty second class musicians, all of them at considerably increased salaries.

This reorganization of the Band enabled Mr. Santelmann to get the very best men from all parts of the country. He was not satisfied, however, with merely a body of wind instruments. His tastes naturally gravitated toward an orchestra, as he himself is a rarely proficient violinist. Consequently he required that every man engaged as a member of the band should also know how to play some instrument used in an orchestra, and to play it well. Thus it happened that the United States Marine Band is practically two organizations in one, and at its concerts in the big music hall built by the government at the Marine Barracks, orchestra as well as band music is performed.

In the year 1908 the George Washington University of Washington conferred upon Mr. Santelmann the degree of Doctor of Music in recognition of his excellent work and notable achievements as leader of the United States Marine Band. He has also received diplomas from the Trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha, the Columbian exposition at Buffalo, and the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis for his services at those world renowned exhibitions.

The second leader of the Marine Band is Mr. Walter F. Smith of Michigan, where he was at one time the leader of the famous Constantine Band. He first enlisted in the Marine Band in 1885 as solo cornetist. He withdrew from the band when Sousa resigned his leadership, and traveled in Sousa's band for four years. He returned to the Marine Band at the end of that time as solo cornetist and second leader.

CHAPTER XV.

The Masked Voice.

For a matter of twelve hours the fog, leaden, dank, viscous, as inexorable as the dominion of evil, had wrapped the world in an embrace as foul and noxious as the coils of some great, gray, slimy serpent.

Through its sluggish folds the ponderous, power-impelled lifeboat crept at a snail's pace, its stem parting and rolling back from either flank a heavy-hearted sea of gray.

In the bows a young woman rested in a state of semi-exhaustion, her eyes closed, her head pillowed on a cork-belt life-preserver, her sodden garments modeled closely to the slender body that was ever and again shaken from head to foot with the strength of a long, shuddering respiration.

Seated on the nearest thwart, Alan Law, chin in hand, watched over the rest of this woman whom he loved with a grimly hopeless solicitude. He was in no happier case than she, so far as physical comfort went—he was no worse, since he might not rest.

Premonition of misfortune darkened his heart with its impenetrable shadow.

In the stern Tom Barcus presided morosely over the steering gear; and Law was no more jealously heedful of his sweetheart than Barcus of the heavy-duty motor that chugged away so purposefully at its business of driving the boat heaven-knows-where.

Lacking at once a compass, all notion whatsoever of the sun's bearings, and any immediate hope of the fog lifting or chance bringing them either to land or to rescue by some larger and less comfortable craft, Barcus steered mainly through force of habit—the salt-water man's instinctive feeling that no boat under way should ever in any conceivable circumstance be without a hand at the helm. It had seemed impossible that it could long escape repetition of the disaster, but somehow, it always did escape, and that by a wide margin; never once had it passed near enough to another vessel to see it.

And now for more than an hour the silence had been uncannily constant, broken only by the rumble of the motor, the muted hiss of water slipping down the side, the suck and gurgle of the wake.

Forebodings no less portentous than Law's crawled in the mind of Barcus. It was as likely as not that the lifeboat was traveling straight out to sea. And gasoline tanks can and oftentimes do become as empty as an official weather prophet's promise of fair weather for a holiday.

More than this, Mr. Barcus was a confirmed skeptic in respect of marine motors; on terms of long and intimate experience with the ways of the demon of perversity that tenants them one and all, he knew that the present sweet-tempered performance of the exhibit under consideration was no earnest whatsoever of future good behavior, that when such a complicated contraption was concerned there was never any telling.

In view of all of which considerations he presently threw open the battery switch.

And the aching void created in the silence by the cessation of that uniform drone was startling enough to rouse even Rose Trine from her state of semi-somnolence.

With a look of panic she sat up, thrust damp hair back from her eyes, and nervously inquired:

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing," Barcus told her, "I shut the engine off—that's all."

Tempers were short in that hour, and Alan was annoyed to think that the rest of his beloved should needlessly have been disturbed.

"What did you do that for?" he demanded sharply.

"Because I jolly well wanted to," Barcus returned in a tone as brusque.

"Oh, you did—eh?"

"Yes, I did—eh! I happen to be boasting this end of the boat and to have sense enough to realize there's no sense at all in our wasting fuel the way we are—cruising nowhere!"

"Well," Law contended, struck by the fairness of this argument, but unable to calm his uneasiness—"Just the same, we might—"

"Yes; of course, we might," Barcus snapped. "We might a whole lot. We might, for instance, be heading for Spain, for all you or I know to the contrary. And in such case, I for one respectfully prefer to have gas enough to take us home again if ever this da—blessed fog lifts!"

And for several seconds longer the stillness strangled their spirits in its ruthless grasp.

Then of a sudden a cry shrilled through the fog, so near at hand that it seemed scarcely more distant than over the side:

"Aho! Help! Aho! Help! Help!"

So insistent, so urgent was its accent that, coupled with the surprise, it brought the three as one to their feet, all a-tremble, their eyes seeking one another's faces, then shifting uneasily away.

"What can it be?" Rose whispered, agitated, shrinking into Alan's ready arm.

"A woman," Barcus put in harshly. "Judith," the girl moaned.

Alan shook himself together. "Impossible!" he contended. "I saw her go down—"

"That doesn't prove she didn't come up," Barcus commented acidly.

"Aho! Motorboat aho-o-y! Help!"

"And that," Barcus pursued sadly, "just proves she did come up—blame the luck! Alive she is, and kicking; stand clear. An able-bodied pair of lungs was back of that hail, my friend; and you needn't tell me I don't know the dulcet accents of that angelic contralto!"

Without heeding him, Alan cupped hands to mouth and sent an answering cry ringing through the murk:

"Aho! Where are you? Where away?"

"Here—on the reef—half-drowned—perishing with chill—"

"How does my voice bear?" Alan called back.

"What the dickens do you care?" Barcus interpolated suspiciously.

"To port," the response rang through the fog. "Starboard your helm and come in slowly!"

"Right-o! Half a minute!" Alan replied reassuringly.

"Like hell!" Mr. Barcus muttered in his throat as he jumped down into the engine pit and bent over the fly-wheel.

Leaping on the forward thwart and balancing himself perilously near the gunwale, Alan strained his vision vainly against the opacity of the fog.

"Can't make out anything," he grumbled, looking back. "Start her up—but slow's the word—and 'ware reef!"

"Nothing doing," Barcus retorted curtly. "The motto is now 'Full speed astern!' as you must know."

"O come! We can't leave a woman out there—in a fix like that!"

"Can't we? You watch!" Barcus grunted malevolently, rocking the heavy flywheel with all his might; for the motor had turned suddenly stubborn.

"Alan!" Rose pleaded, laying a hand upon his sleeve. "Think what it means! I know it sounds heartless of me—and it's my own sister. But you know how mad she is—wild with hatred and jealousy. If you take her into this boat, it's your life or hers!"

"If we leave her out there," Alan retorted, shaking his arm impatiently free, "it's her life on our heads!"

At this juncture the motor took charge of the argument, ending it in summary fashion. With a smart explosion in the cylinder, it started up unexpectedly, at one and the same time almost dislocating the arm of Mr. Barcus and precipitating Alan overboard.

It was not given him to know what was happening until he found himself in the water; he struggled to the surface just in time to see the bows of the lifeboat back away and vanish into the mist.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Island.

Not more than twenty seconds could have elapsed before Barcus recovered from the shock of the motor's treachery sufficiently to reverse the wheel, throttle down the carburetor and jump out of the engine-pit.

But in that small space of time the lifeboat and Alan Law had parted company as definitely as though one of them had been levitated bodily to the far side of the earth.

It could not have been more than a minute after the accident before Barcus was guiding the boat over what, going on his sense of location and judgment of distance, he could have sworn was the precise spot where Alan had disappeared, but without discovering a sign of him.

And for the next twenty minutes he divided his attention between attempts to soothe and reassure the half-distracted girl and efforts to elude a reply from Alan by stentorian hailing—with as little success in the one as in the other.

"Alan!" he shrieked at the top of his lungs. "Alan! Give a hail to tell us you're safe!"

There was a little pause; he was racking his brains for some more moving mode of appeal when the answer came in another voice—in the voice of Judith Trine, clear, musical, effervescent with sardonic humor:

"Be at peace, little one—don't be more! Mr. Law is with us—and safe—oh, quite, quite safe!"

In dumb consternation Barcus sought the countenance of Rose. Her eyes, meeting his, were blank with despair. He shook his head helplessly and let his hands dangle idly between his knees.

With no way on her, the lifeboat drifted with a current of unknown set and strength.

"What can we do?" Rose implored. "We must do something. We can't leave him . . . Oh, when I think of him there, in her hands, I could go mad!"

"If only I knew," Barcus protested; "but my hands are tied, my wife are as helpless as my eyes are blind. There's nothing to go by—except the bare possibility that the reef she spoke of may be Norton's. It doesn't seem possible, but we may have made that much something. In that case we're about three miles off the mainland, somewhere in the neighborhood of Katama Island, a little, rocky, desolate bump of earth, inhabited mainly by fishermen."

The girl wrung her hands. "But how could Judith get there—and with her men—and ammunition?"

"Don't ask me. Going on my experience with the lady, I'd be willing to bet that she was picked up by the steamer that ran us down, and proceeded to make a prize of it—or try to. One thing's certain—she must have found or stolen a boat from somebody; they couldn't have made Norton's reef by swimming—it's too far. That's the answer; they were picked up, stole a boat, and piled it up on the reef."

Yanked Him Off to His Cell.

"And there's no hope—!"

"Only of the fog relenting. If we could make the mainland and get help . . ."

His accents died away into a disconsolate silence that was unbroken for upwards of an hour.

So slowly the current bore the lifeboat toward the beach and so still the tide that Barcus never appreciated they were within touch of any land until the bows grounded with a slight jar and a grating sound.

With a cry of incredulity he leaped to his feet—"Land, by all that's lucky!"—and stooping, lent a hand to the girl, aiding her to rise.

Hardly had Rose had time to comprehend what had happened, when Barcus was over the side and wrestling with the bows, dragging the boat farther upon the shoals.

She was, however, more than one man could manage; and when her stem had bitten a little more deeply into the sands, Barcus gave over the attempt and, lifting Rose down, set her on dry land, then climbed back into the vessel, rummaged out her anchor and cable, and carried them ashore, planting the former well up towards the foot of the cliff.

And as he rose from this last labor he was half blinded by the glare of the westerling sun as it broke through the fog.

In less than five minutes the miraculous commonplace was an accomplished fact; the wind had rolled the fog back like a scroll and sent it spinning far out to sea, while the shore on which the two had landed was deluged with sunlight, bright and beautifully warm.

He showed a thoughtful and considerate countenance to the girl.

"You're about all in?"

She nodded confirmation of this, which was no more than simple truth. "Where are we?" she asked.

He made her party to his own perplexity.

"You're not able to travel," he pursued. "Do you mind being left alone while I take a turn up the beach and have a look round? We can't be far from some sort of civilization; even if it's an island there are no desert isles along this coast. I'll find something soon enough, no fear."

By tacit consent both avoided mention of Alan, but each knew what thought was uppermost in the other's mind.

"There's a niche among the rocks up here," Barcus indicated, "almost a cave. You'll be warm and dry enough, and secure from observation overhead. Maybe you can even snatch a few winks of sleep. . . ."

She negatived that suggestion with a weary smile; no sleep for her until sheer exhaustion overpowered her, or she knew of Alan's fate.

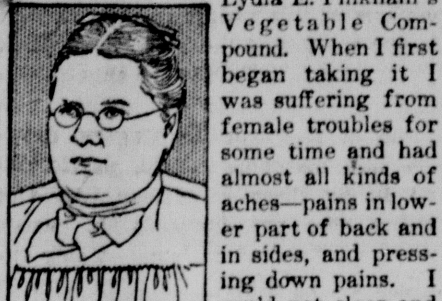

And so, reiterating his promise to be gone no longer than absolutely might be needful, he left her there,

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES APPEAL OF BELGIUM

Makes Significant Statement
About Final Assessment.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The Belgian commission which comes to protest against alleged German atrocities in Belgium was received in the east room of White House Wednesday by President Wilson. Accompanied by Minister Havenith, the commissioners assembled at the state department just before 2 p. m. and were received by Secretary Bryan, who then took them to the White House.

The president made a significant statement when he pointed out that where wrongs have been committed they will be assessed in the final reckoning, according to plans that nations of the old world have already provided. The president himself is looked on as one with whom these reckonings will be adjusted.

"I thank you for the document you have put in my hands containing the result of an investigation made by a judicial committee appointed by the Belgian government to look into the matter of which you have come to speak," said the president. "It shall have my most attentive perusal and my most thoughtful consideration."

"You will, I am sure, not expect me to say more. Presently—I pray God very soon—this war will be over. The day of accounting will then come, when, I take it for granted, the nations of Europe will assemble to determine a settlement. Where wrongs have been committed their consequences and the relative responsibility involved will be assessed."

"The nations of the world have, fortunately, by agreement made a plan for such a reckoning and settlement. What such a plan cannot compass the opinion of mankind, the final arbiter in such matters, will supply. It would be unwise, it would be premature, for a single government, however fortunately separated from the present struggle, it would be inconsistent with the neutral position of any nation, which, like this, has no part in the contest, to form or express a final judgment."

In reply to a letter of the kaiser complaining that the allies were using dum-dum bullets the president used the same language as in the Belgium reply.

James E. Sullivan Dead.

New York, Sept. 17.—James E. Sullivan, dean of amateur athletics in America, died at Mount Sinai hospital following an operation for intestinal trouble. Mr. Sullivan returned last Sunday from the A. A. U. track and field games at Baltimore and on that night was stricken with the illness that resulted in his death.

Melon Patch Trespasser Sues.

Dixon, Ill., Sept. 17.—Everette and Oscar Hamilton have been made defendants in a suit for $500 damages brought by Leo H. Ritter. Ritter was caught in the Hamiltons' melon patch and was fired on by Edward Hamilton, he alleges, forty-one shot taking effect.

Has Anyone Seen Mildred Asmus.

Earlville, Ill., Sept. 17.—The police of Illinois and Iowa have been asked to search for Mildred Asmus, sixteen years old, who disappeared from her home in Earlville two months ago.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and nobody can tell. Brush it through hair.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 60 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

BACK TO WORK

Trade Revival Starts at Pace That Indicates Boom.

MANY LINES FEEL STIMULUS

Business Which Halted at First War Scare Revives on Talk of Peace—10,000 Increase by Packers in Few Days—Steel and Iron Among Booms.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Chicago business men predict an immediate improvement in conditions as a result of the announcement of big employers of labor that thousands of men, who have been idle for months, have been put back to work.

Nearly 8,000 men are back on their jobs at the Pullman car shops. A thousand more will be in their old places before the end of the week. The employers' associations have taken a census of the workers who have been restored to their positions within the last two weeks and are pleasantly surprised.

The greatest activity has been in the stock yards, steel mills, mason and stone construction work, bridge building and making of agricultural instruments.

The Argo Starch works at Argo, Ill., and the large firms manufacturing bricks, plumbing material, terra cotta building materials, paints, lumber and structural iron have taken back numbers of workmen. The working forces of the packers are estimated to have been increased 10,000 within the last few days.

The Central Locomotive and Car works at Chicago Heights are among the big employers that have resumed operations with the usual number of workmen. Local agents of the Ralston Steel Car company of Columbus, O., have been notified that a similar return to prosperity has taken place there. Their shops are now running at nearly full force and will resume normal operations within a week or two.

Iron Works Resume.

The American Bridge and Structural Iron works has taken back 2,000 men in local shops and many times that number elsewhere. Contractors having unfinished city work, acting under the spur of officials, have put on increased numbers of men to hasten completion of the work.

The same policy adopted by building erectors who are constructing the sky scrapers in the loop district has employed the surplus tradesmen until it is now a matter of difficulty to find workmen for emergency tasks.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Rosenbaum, Cohen & Serf, Stein & Co., F. Sigel & Brothers and other clothing manufacturers put back to work many of their employees this week.

Morris & Co. doubled the number of workmen in three departments, clematis, bouillon soups and fertilizer. The seasonal demands for these products made it necessary to employ about 1,000 more men than heretofore.

The same conditions in other big packing plants will probably increase the working hours and numbers of men five times as much.
